

How Tandberg saw the week

The Victorian government brought down its budget this week and a large part of it related to how to move people around Melbourne. The government prefers roads. However, the funding of such huge infrastructure projects is another thing, as Tandberg pointed out. Elsewhere, the crisis in the court system continued over Legal Aid funding cuts, which affected some trials because of a lack of representation for defendants; and the definition of rich depends on where you are sitting.

The Age 11/8/2013